8 THINGS YOU SHOULD NOT FORGET WHEN RENTING THE FLAT

1. DEPOSIT. Landlords often ask to pay a deposit, the amount of money which is usually one month's rent price and the rent for the current month. Thus, in order to move to a new apartment, initially you will have to devote a greater amount of cash for payment. In addition, if you find an apartment with the help of real estate agent, he will also need to be paid for the services (fees usually are about - usually about 150 EUR).
2. CONTRACT. A number of problems between landlords and tenants can be avoided by signing bilateral agreement. It will protect both the tenant and landlord to many uncertainties. Conditions that are noted in agreement must be clear and understood by both parties.
3. IMPORTANT AGREEMENTS. The contract should clearly set out the rights and obligations. For example, when the rent will be paid, who will pay the taxes - the tenant or owner. Finally - by when the contract is valid and what is relinquished terms. Traditionally, it is noted in the contract that either a landlord or a tenant changing their plans it must be advised at least two months.
4. BILLS AND DEBT. Before signing the contract, it is important to review the bills and find out exactly how much you will have to pay for heating. It is recommended to see a few months' bills - from the beginning of the heating season to end. This is the only way to get a general view of how much you need to pay for heating during the coldest months of the year. It is equally important to check the all the debts of apartment. The contract should clearly state electricity, water and gas meter readings, from which bills will be payable.
5. RENTAL PAYMENT. In the contract is necessary to clearly state the type of the rental payments: transfer to account or cash transfers. If you will be paying by cash every time it is worthy to sign the act. This is a proof that money is really paid. You can create and align Billing Act yourself with the Landlord.
6. ADDITIONAL CHARGES. Misunderstandings can arise due to additional fees collected by building community. Make sure you agree with the landlord, who will have to bear the costs if, for example, roof of the house will be repaired or outside door lock will be changed. Additionally, it is important to reach an agreement on who will be responsible for household appliances - broken TV or washing machines - repairs.
7. LANDLORD'S VISITS. Some landlords like to visit the apartment not only when collecting the rent payments. If you want to protect yourself against such spontaneous visits, agree on which day of the month the owner will come before signing the contract.
8. FURNITURE. Before you move into rented accommodation, you should keep in mind to check the furniture and do not miss various defects, such as cracked walls or floor. Photos may be the only evidence to prove the true.
